Prayer has a major and serious importance in the life of Muslim. It is the second pillar of the pillars of Islam, and it is the first subject the servant will be liable and held accountable for in the Day of Judgment. If it gets accepted, then all deeds will be accepted; if not, then all deeds will not be accepted. It is the sign and hallmark of the believer and pious.

Who guards it, Allah guards them, and who neglects it he or she cannot be trusted with any other matter. The value of Islam in the heart of the man is on par with the value of prayer in their heart; their share of Islam is equal to the prayer's share of their attention and life. It is the sign of the servant's love of their Lord, and of realizing and acknowledging His bounties and favors.

Therefore, it is with pleasure that Islamic Center of Kansas announces a competition to write a report about Prayer through answering the following questions with no more than 10 paragraphs total:

- Why was prayer prescribed? 2.5
